Chapter I General Provisions

(Purpose)
Article 1 (1) Kyushu University (hereinafter referred to as the "University") aims to, as the core of scholarly activities, impart wide-ranging knowledge, teach and study specialized arts and sciences in depth, and have students develop their intellectual, ethical and practical abilities, in accordance with the spirit of the Basic Act on Education (Act No. 120 of 2006).
(2) The University is to conduct education and research intended to accomplish the purpose referred to in the preceding paragraph and disseminate the results thereof widely, thereby contributing to the development of society.

(Self-assessment)
Article 2 (1) The University is to inspect and assess the status of educational and research activities, etc. carried out at the University and publicize the results thereof in order to enhance the level of its education and research as well as to accomplish its purpose and social mission.
(2) The University is to have the results of the self-inspection and assessment referred to in the preceding paragraph as well as those of third-party evaluations and various other evaluations reflected in its objectives and plans, and make constant efforts for continuous reforms.

/Publication of Status of Educational and Research Activities/
Article 2-2 The University is to publicize the status of its educational and research activities in order to contribute to the dissemination of education and research results and the promotion of use of such results.

Chapter II Organizations

(Undergraduate Schools)

(2) The purposes related to development of human resources and other educational and research purposes for each undergraduate school or department are provided for separately by regulations.

(3) The policies concerning graduation certification for each undergraduate school or department, the policies concerning the formation and implementation of curriculum, and the policies concerning acceptance of enrolled students are provided for separately by regulations.

(4) The composition of a faculty organization and other necessary matters of each undergraduate school are provided for separately by regulations.

(5) The duration of study, curriculum, admission, withdrawal, graduation, and other matters necessary for schooling of students of undergraduate schools are provided for by the General Regulations of Undergraduate Schools of Kyushu University (Kyushu University Regulation No. 2 of 2004).

(Graduate Schools/Faculties)

Article 4 (1) The University has in place Kyushu University Graduate Schools/Faculties (hereinafter referred to as the "Graduate Schools/Faculties").

(2) In accordance with the purpose of the University, the Graduate Schools/Faculties aim to teach and study academic theory and application, delving into the depth thereof, or to cultivate students' deep knowledge and excellent abilities as needed to engage in occupations that require advanced expertise, thereby contributing to the advancement of culture.

(3) Among the Graduate Schools/Faculties, those aiming to teach and study academic theory and application and to cultivate students' deep knowledge and excellent abilities as needed to engage in occupations that require advanced expertise are set up as professional graduate schools.

Article 5 The Graduate Schools/Faculties consist of graduate schools organized according to the respective educational purposes, and graduate faculties organized according to the respective research purposes and in consideration of educational necessity, both of which are established as basic organizations for education and research other than the graduate schools prescribed in the proviso to Article 100 of the School Education Act (Act No. 26 of 1947).

Article 6 (1) The graduate schools established to constitute the Graduate Schools/Faculties referred to in the preceding Article are those set forth in the left-hand column of the following table, and these graduate schools have in place departments set forth in the right-hand column of the same table:

Notes:
Graduate schools provide doctoral programs; provided, however, that:
the Master Course in Graduate School of Medical Sciences provides a master's program;
the Department of Innovative Science and Technology for Bio-industry in the Graduate School of Bioresource and Bioenvironmental Sciences provides a three-year doctoral program; and the Department of Clinical Psychology Practice in the Graduate School of Human-Environment Studies, the Department of Legal Practice in the Law School, Department of Business and Technology Management in the Graduate School of Economics, and the Department of Health Care Administration and Management in the Graduate School of Medical Sciences provide professional degree programs (meaning programs of professional graduate schools referred to in Article 4, paragraph (3); the same applies hereinafter); among these, the Department of Legal Practice in the Law School is set up as a law school.

(2) The purposes related to development of human resources and other educational and research purposes for each graduate school or department are provided for separately by regulations.
(3) The policies concerning graduation certification for each graduate school or department, the policies concerning the formation and implementation of curriculum, and the policies concerning acceptance of enrolled students are provided for separately by regulations.

(4) Doctoral programs aim to cultivate students' advanced research abilities in their major fields as needed to carry out research activities independently as researchers or engage in other highly specialized work, as well as a wealth of knowledge that supports such abilities.

(5) Master's programs aim to impart deep and detailed knowledge from a broad perspective, and cultivate students' research abilities in their major fields or excellent abilities as needed to engage in occupations that require advanced expertise in addition to such research abilities.

(6) Professional degree programs aim to cultivate students' deep knowledge and excellent abilities as needed to engage in occupations that require advanced expertise; among these, the professional degree program at a law school aims exclusively to provide education to train legal professionals.

(7) The composition of a faculty organization and other necessary matters of each graduate school are provided for separately by regulations.

(8) The duration of study, educational methods, admission, withdrawal, completion of programs, and other matters necessary for schooling of students of graduate schools are provided for by the General Regulations of Graduate Schools of Kyushu University (Kyushu University Regulation No. 3 of 2004).

Article 7 The graduate faculties established to constitute the Graduate Schools/Faculties referred to in Article 5 are the following:

(i) Faculty of Humanities;
(ii) Faculty of Social and Cultural Studies;
(iii) Faculty of Human-Environment Studies;
(iv) Faculty of Law;
(v) Faculty of Economics;
(vi) Faculty of Languages and Cultures;
(vii) Faculty of Science;
(viii) Faculty of Mathematics;
(ix) Faculty of Medical Sciences;
(x) Faculty of Dental Science;
(xi) Faculty of Pharmaceutical Sciences;
(xii) Faculty of Engineering;
(xiii) Faculty of Design;
(xiv) Faculty of Information Science and Electrical Engineering;
(xv) Faculty of Engineering Sciences; and
(xvi) Faculty of Agriculture.

(Faculty of Arts and Science)
Article 7-2 (1) The University has in place the Faculty of Arts and Science as a university-wide organization for fostering the basis for learning that all students of the University are expected to have in common.
(2) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the Faculty of Arts and Science are provided for separately by regulations.

(Institute for Advanced Study)
Article 7-3 (1) The University has in place the Institute for Advanced Study as a university-wide organization for promoting advanced research activities.
(2) In order for the University to serve as a center of global research and education and achieve excellent research results which can lead the academic community, the Institute for Advanced Study is established based on a university-wide cooperative framework as the center for substantive and advanced research activities.

activities to be carried out across disciplines by, among talented researchers whom the University is proud of, those who show significantly high research performance in their specialized fields, post professors, and young researchers who will lead the future generations of the University. The institute aims to develop human resources through these activities and benefit society widely with its research results.

(3) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the Institute for Advanced Study are provided for separately by regulations.

(Research Institutes)
Article 8 (1) The University has in place research institutes attached thereto.
(2) The research institutes referred to in the preceding paragraph are those set forth in the left-hand column of the following table, and the purposes of these attached research institutes are as set forth in the right-hand column of the same table:

<table>

(3) The internal organization and other necessary matters of each research institute are provided for separately by regulations.

(International Institute)
Article 8-2 (1) The University has in place the International Institute for Carbon-Neutral Energy Research.
(2) The International Institute for Carbon-Neutral Energy Research aims to create basic science in carbon-neutral energy research and contribute to solving challenges toward achieving a sustainable and environmentally-friendly society.
(3) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the International Institute for Carbon-Neutral Energy Research are provided for separately by regulations.

(Hospital)
Article 9 (1) The School of Medicine and the School of Dentistry have in place an affiliated hospital as an educational and research facility for their joint use, which is called Kyushu University Hospital (hereinafter referred to as the "Hospital").
(2) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the Hospital are provided for separately by regulations.

(University Library)
Article 10 (1) The University has in place the University Library.
(2) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the University Library are provided for separately by regulations.
Article 11 Deleted

(Research Institute for Information Technology)
Article 12 (1) The University has in place the Research Institute for Information Technology as a nationwide joint use facility for conducting practical research and study, developing and providing infrastructure equipment, etc., and carrying out other specialized operations for the purpose of promoting the use of information in study, education, etc.
(2) In addition to the operations referred to in the preceding paragraph, the Research Institute for Information Technology carries out system development for the information infrastructure in the University.
(3) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the Research Institute for Information Technology are provided for separately by regulations.

(Joint Use Educational Center)
Article 12-2 The Faculty of Arts and Science prescribed in Article 7-2 is to be made available for the use by other universities as a joint use educational center certified by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology under the provisions of Article 143-2, paragraph (2) of the Ordinance for Enforcement of the School Education Act (Ordinance of the Ministry of Education No. 11 of 1947; hereinafter referred to as the "School Education Act Enforcement Ordinance").

(Joint Use/Joint Research Centers)
Article 12-3 The research institutes, etc. set forth in the following table are to serve for the development of academic research as respective joint use/joint research centers certified by the Minister of Education, Culture, Sports, Science and Technology under the provisions of Article 143-3, paragraph (2) of the School Education Act Enforcement Ordinance:

(Platform of Inter / Transdisciplinary Energy Research)
Article 12-4(1) The University has in place the Platform of Inter / Transdisciplinary Energy Research, as a university-wide organization to promote advanced educational and research activities in the energy field.
(2) The internal organization and other necessary matters of the Platform of Inter / Transdisciplinary Energy Research are provided for separately by regulations.

(Centers for Common Education and Research)
Article 13 (1) The University has in place centers for common education and research set forth in the left-hand column of the following table as organizations where the faculty members of the University and other persons engage in education and research jointly or as organizations to be used jointly by them for education or research. Among these centers for common education and research, those subject to the period of existence will cease to exist upon the date of expiration of the respective period of existence as set forth in the right-hand column of the same table:
